Questions 36 - 40

How do you survive an earthquake? In Taiwan, quakes happen quite often. Here are some tips for you to do the right thing and protect yourself when they start.

If you are in a house when the quake hits, you should get out of your house as soon as possible and find an open space, staying away from all the tall buildings. But if you are in an apartment building, it is probably safer if you stay where you are and find a place next to a wall. If the wall falls, it may create a space for you to hide in.

If you are outdoors when the quake occurs, find a spot that is not close to any power lines for you could be electrocuted if they fall. And if you are near a river, get to higher ground because quakes can also cause floods or landslides.
